If you cannot be identified (e.g., when Personal Data has been aggregated and anonymized), then this Policy does not apply.

2. What Data We Collect and How We Do That

When you visit our Websites, use our Apps, or contact us directly we or our service providers collect and process your Personal Data. The ways it is collected can be broadly categorized into the following:

Information you provide to us directly

When you use certain parts of our Apps or Websites, we might ask you to provide Personal Data. For example, you provide your email address when you contact us with questions or request support. Similarly, your email address or Instagram username becomes available to us when you connect your Instagram account to one of our Apps.

If you make an in-App purchase directly through us, we may collect your email address and maintain a purchase history related to your in-App transactions and subscriptions. Note that payments are processed by third-party providers, and we do not receive or store your financial information, such as payment method details or card numbers.

Photos accessible to Apps

Certain Apps require access to your photos stored on your device, provided you grant permission.

Some Apps may also allow you to upload photos (including associated technical metadata, such as file dimensions and file size). We process only the specific photos you choose to modify using an App. For example, if you share a photo through a connected Instagram account to apply a feature, we process only that individual photo, not your entire Instagram photo library or albums.

When you upload a photo directly to an App, it is used solely to provide the requested service. For example, if you choose to enhance a picture, it will only be used to generate and return the enhanced version to you.

We do not collect or extract biometric data from photos (such as mathematical representations of unique facial features), facial geometry, facial attributes, or authentication-related information.

Photos are stored using industry-trusted third-party cloud providers, such as Amazon AWS. They are retained only for as long as you use the respective App and are deleted once you remove the App. You may also request deletion of your photos at any time while using the App.

Usage information we or our service providers collect when you interact with Apps or Websites

We or our service providers may automatically collect certain information about the devices you use to access the Apps and Websites. As described further below, we or our service providers may collect and analyze (a) device information and identifiers such as IP addresses, geolocation information (by country and city based on an IP address), unique device identifiers, Google Advertising ID, Apple ID for Advertising, IMEI and TCP/IP address, browser types, screen resolution, browser language, operating system, mobile device carrier information; (b) information related to the ways in which you interact with the Apps and Websites, such as referring and exit web pages and URLs, platform type, the number of clicks, content viewed, statistical information about the use of the Apps and Websites (e.g. features you use; screens you viewed, navigation paths between pages or screens, the actions you take; the date and time you used the Apps and Websites, the frequency of your use of the Apps and Websites), error logs, and other similar information; and (c) information about your purchases with us. As described further below, we or our service providers may use third-party web and mobile analytics services and technologies (such as Google Analytics, Facebook Analytics, Amplitude, Firebase, AppStore Analytics, etc.), including cookies, pixels and similar tools, to assist in collecting this information. The information collected by various analytics technologies described above will be disclosed to or collected directly by these service providers, who use the information to evaluate your use of the Apps and Websites, including by analyzing usage trends, assisting with fraud prevention, and providing certain features to you.

Cookies and similar tracking technologies

We do not use our (first-party) cookies.

Mobile devices may use tracking technologies similar to cookies, such as Apple's Advertising Identifier (IDFA) and Identifier for Vendor (IDFV) on iOS devices, and Google's Advertising ID on Android devices.

We use third-party software development kits (SDKs), which are blocks of code provided by analytics and advertising partners. These SDKs help us and our partners understand how you interact with our Apps and may collect information about your device, network, and identifiers associated with your device or our Apps. For more information, please refer to the privacy policies of Facebook (Meta), Apple, and Google available on their respective websites.

To opt out of interest-based advertising on iOS devices, follow these steps: Launch "Settings" > Tap "Privacy" > Scroll down and tap "Advertising" > Toggle "Limit Ad Tracking" on. To opt out on Android devices, follow these steps: Launch "Settings" > Tap "Google" >

Select "Ads" > Toggle on "Opt out of Ads Personalization." You can also reset your advertising ID by tapping "Reset Advertising Identifier."

If you opt out of interest-based advertising, you will still see ads, but they will not be tailored to your specific interests based on your device's web-viewing data.

We may use local storage technology on our Websites to store information locally on your computer or mobile device. This may include data related to billing and invoicing, such as your user ID and email address.

Information from third parties

We may collect Personal Data about you from third parties, such as Instagram (Meta). For example, if you connect to our Apps via Meta's API, we may collect, store, and use information you have agreed to share through Instagram's API. This may include your username, number of followers, account type, number of entries, app version, and other details.

Our payment providers may provide us with limited information about transactions, including the payer's zip code, IP address, card network type (Visa, MasterCard, etc.), and the last four digits of the card.

We use Meta tracking pixels on our Website to monitor the effectiveness of our Facebook advertisements. Meta Pixel records data such as the device used to access our Website and your actions on it. This helps us improve our advertising efforts, create retargeting campaigns, and build custom audiences for ads on Facebook and our Website. For more details, please refer to Meta's Cookies Policy.
